THE CHILLING, LITTLE-KNOWN STORY OF THE RISE OF NAZISM IN LOS ANGELES IN THE 1930s AND THE JEWISH SPY NETWORK THAT STOPPED IT.

No American city was more important to the Nazis than Los Angeles, home to Hollywood, the greatest propaganda machine in the world. The Nazis plotted to kill the city's Jews and to sabotage the nation's military installations, but U.S. law enforcement agencies were not paying close attention, preferring to monitor Reds rather than Nazis. Only attorney Leon Lewis and his daring ring of spies stood in the way. From 1933 until the end of World War II, Lewis, the man Nazis would come to call "the most dangerous Jew in Los Angeles," ran a spy operation comprising military veterans and their wives who infiltrated every Nazi and fascist group in Los Angeles. Often rising to leadership positions, they uncovered and foiled the Nazis' disturbing plans for death and destruction.

Featuring a large cast of Nazis, undercover agents, and colorful supporting players, the Pulitzer Prize finalist Hitler in Los Angeles, by acclaimed historian Steven J. Ross, tells the story of Lewis's daring spy network in a time when hate groups had moved from the margins to the mainstream.

"A terrifying, revelatory and inspiring masterpiece."
